

Lisa Jenkins

At the helm as executive director is Lisa Jenkins, an Emmy award winning veteran television producer and noted journalist. Ms. Jenkins credits include the documentary “America’s Team Turns 40,” for which she won two Emmy Awards. She also won an Iris Award for the documentary, “The Landry Legacy.” She spent eight years reporting and feature producing for FSN Southwest and WFAA-TV. She was also the founder and president of Kyser, Inc., a retail company.

Ms. Jenkins attended the Academy of Art College in San Francisco and crafted her television skills at Southern Methodist University. She is a native of Arkansas and now lives in Dallas, Texas with her husband and two daughters.

Ms. Jenkins oversees every project from start to finish allowing for fast production and precise creative control. The Company is uniquely positioned to offer state of the art content and technology services in their full service production facility. The creative production team is directed by a carefully chosen staff with many years of experience and leadership in the broadcast industry.